Peruvian Paso Fino horse

The modern Peruvian Paso Fino horse descends from the horses introduced into Peru by the Spaniards in the sixteenth-century. Today's Peruvian Paso horse is the result of 400-plus years of highly selective breeding. This horse is larger, deeper in the body and wider, have high head carriage and front leg lift, are smooth to ride and exhibit basic four-beat lateral footfall.

AREQUIPA (COLCA): YANQUE - UYU UYU

After preparing the horses, we left with direction towards Yanque (which has the colonial Temple of the Immaculate Conception dating from the 17th century). We are heading to the Chacapi thermal waters (income not included). Then, cross the Cervantes Bridge and ascend to the archaeological complex of Uyu Uyu, where we will find Collahua and Incas constructions (entrance included). We continue with the cavalcade descending towards the Colcas of Chininia. Then we headed to Yanque where we complete the circuit for the final transfer to the hotel.

AREQUIPA (COLCA): YANQUE - COPORAQUE

After preparing the horses, we leave towards Yanque (which has the colonial Temple of the Immaculate Conception dating from the 17th century). We are heading towards the Chacapi thermal waters (entry not included). Then, cross the Cervantes Bridge ascending towards the upper part of the district of Coporaque from where we can observe the great magnitude of the countryside of this area. Towards the same district, we will have a recess and we will visit the Colonial Temple Santiago de Apostle, built in the year 1569. Then, we took course to the grand lodging of Princess Mama LLachi (of Collahua structure) and then to the Colcas of Chininia (located under the Siphon Bridge). Continuing with the cavalcade, we arrived at the Mirador de Occolli to admire the platforms. At the end, transfer to the hotel.
