CUSCO (SACRED VALLEY): CRUZPATA BL

Today we tour to Maras, one of the most beautiful parts of the Cusco Andes, mountain biking. Our adventure begins at the village of Cruzpata all the way to Moray Circular ruins, an ancient agriculture experimental center. On the way, we will go through crop fields and have a spectacular view of the snowy Verónica and Chicón. To take full advantage of the beautiful nature that surrounds us, we will enjoy a delicious outdoor picnic.

Easy: Afterwards, following an ancient Inca trail, we continue to the town of Maras and to the salt mines of Pichingoto, impressive conglomerate of more than three thousand terraces where salt is stored from the time of the Inca Empire until today. Depending on our mood and physical state, we have the alternative to go through a "single track" to Urubamba Sacred Valley of the Incas. Our private transportation will take us back to the hotel.

Moderate: Afterwards, driving, we continue to the town of Maras and to the salt mines of Pichingoto, impressive conglomerate of more than three thousand terraces where salt is stored from the time of the Inca Empire until today. Our private transportation will take us back to the hotel.

Demanding: Then, by car, we will continue to the Moray Circular ruins, an ancient agriculture experimental center and to the salt mines of Pichingoto, impressive conglomerate of more than three thousand terraces where salt is stored from the time of the Inca Empire until today. Our private transportation will take us back to the hotel.
